Oilers deal

By SPUM STAFF

BEIJING, CHINA—City council will vote today on a deal which would mean the end of the bitter Oilers dispute in Edmonton. After the ten year ordeal, which has been bounced around from Northbands to mayor Jan Rimer, then back to team owner Peter Puckington, then back to Northbands, then back to Jan Rimer...

"I think our mayor—who is a communist, by the way—should quit giving all these fairies our city money, and should support good stuff, like that there hockey team," said longtime Oilers fan and Spum columnist Joe Butthead.

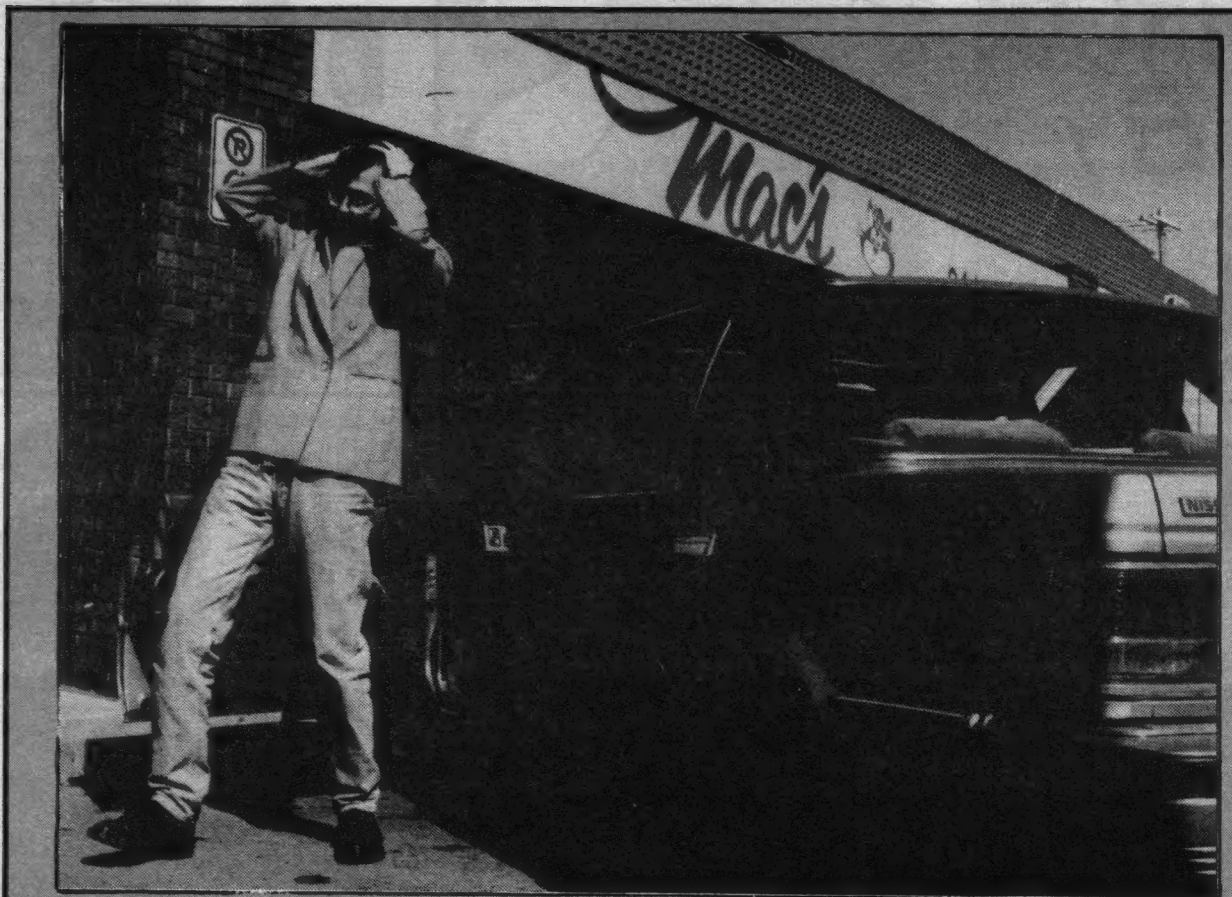

The city has offered Peter Puckington a $10 million dollar contract if he promises to keep the team playing at Northbands. In addition, he will also get all the city's profits for the next 30 years.

Said the mayor, "I think Peter has really been screwed around by a whole bunch of people. He's been given a raw deal, so we'd like to do what we can to help him."

The provincial government also announced today that it was giving Puckington his meat and dairy company back, along with a $30 000 bonus.

"It's good that our hockey team will still be here for a long time," said Rob Rroyd, an Edmontonian. "Because it would really suck if Calgary had a hockey team and we didn't."

A Spum poll showed that nine out of ten readers were glad a deal was reached, because they were sick of hearing about it every day.

Laurence Deecore, Liberal opponent, accidentally smashed into a Mac's store yesterday at 87th Ave. and 116 St. Larry received his third impaired driving charge this month, the first resulting from an incident on the legislature grounds.

Joey Muss, long-time stick-boy for the Oilers, was ecstatic over the deal.

"I'm so excited, because it's lots of fun, and those guys are really good at hockey," he said.

ASSes too abundant on campus, says MLA

KG—Thousands of university students are unaware of a potentially debilitating syndrome that has gripped the campus. An emergency medical SWAT team rushed to the U of A Monday in a desperate effort to collect samples of student life.

The extremely fortunate discovery was made when esteemed researchers, Dun Nuthing and Noah Ackshun, observed a strange thing during one of the standard flashcard drills. Upon flashing images of recent and historic popular student uprisings, the students responded with minimal vital signs.

"I was stunned at the lack of historical perspective. The students didn't understand why the Parisienne students protested and why the US sit-ins of the 60s took place," said Dun Nuthing.

The pervasive disease has been named 'Amnesic Student Syndrome' or ASS. The cluster of symptoms which make up this abnormality include apathy, recurring feelings of atomization and defeat, fascination with sexual innuendo and Star Trek, being easily duped by economic arguments, and looking out for oneself.

Commenting on the new syndrome, premier Ralph Klowin stated "The ASS on campus is great!" Jack Brady, Minister of Never Advanced anyone's Education, chirped

"the more ASS, the better!"

Two investigative members were treated at a nearby hospital due to exposure to the campus environment. They recovered and were released late Monday, and were advised that returning to campus could inhibit their involvement in any future social protests.

Diane Migosh, an assinine and demoted Tory MLA, said "It's a shame that ASS didn't strike the fringe U of A groups only." When asked to clarify her statement, she denied memory of what she said and claimed she was misrepresented by the media. The only remedies suggested were double Kolleinostomy and a Prestonectomy.

Pot Pushers busted!

By RODME
QUINN
SPUM Staff-
licker

The local Pot Pushers political front, Grass-hoots, held another pro-pot rally at Gazebo Park last Sunday. This time, authorities say they may have gone too far.

The self-appointed dictator and spokesman for the group, David Melon-Lenin, began the rally by lighting up a lethal-sized pot cigarette, or "joint," and then, to the amazement of local authorities, passed it around to the innocent children around him, some as young as twelve years old. The music of Black Sabbath, a pro-Satan heavy metal band, could be heard in the background. A few of the teenage girls became so "high" or "spaced-out" from the drug, they took off their tops.

"He obviously wants to get some new customers hooked!" exclaimed a bystander, between puffs of a Camel. "This guy has already been charged with trafficking once. These drug pushers are scum, they should all be shot!"

One stoner got quite irate at the media for "preventing the pro-legalization movement from responding to criticism."

"You know these kids will say anything just to rationalize getting stoned" responded Alderman Wrong Hater.

After the fun had ended and the "high" had worn off, the teens had to deal with the withdrawal symptoms that come with the horrible physical addiction all pot-abusers face. Some were seen rolling around on the ground, clutching their bellies and screaming "just another hit, please, man—just one more hoot" to unsympathetic bystanders.

Riot police attempted to move in and quietly disperse the crowd of two hundred or so, but the crowd was being much too confrontational and uncooperative, police said. Edmonton's finest deecided it was best just to avoid "making a scene." "We have the whole thing on video—including the topless teenage girls. We will go over the evidence over and over again until we have established just exactly who we should bust, and after a week or so we'll make some arrests."

*Even more crap to make

Don't call us. we'll call you.

HICKS HE LIX

I was leafin' through a Hustler the other day, looking for some new Spumshine Girls, and I was struck by this fat, hairy woman who looked similar to local personality Chris Woo. "Heck," I said, "if you were on our third page, I would be your secret lover." Although she spurned my advances with an aggressive retort, I knew I was a fraction closer to idealistically sodomizing Woo.

It's cheese!

Glory day and sweet Jesus! A woman who looked like Winona Ryder with huge watermelons and tremendous acne was spotted recently with Griwkowsky and Notley. Obviously she has not yet spotted my peach-coloured ass hair and delicately aligned masturbation scars. Chicks ought to love me. Why are you with those guys, Winona? It is me who is somehow pathetically superior.

Newfoundland!

Local playwright Brad Fraser is gay. Can you believe it? What if he finds me cute or something?

Rancor monsters!

The best thing about wrestlers is that they glisten. Local tangler Tikker Goberg recently asked me to vaseline his back. "OK. Indeed I will," said I. I love local athletes with sexual intensity. Damn.

Love cats!

In case you didn't know this already, Gert Brukes is coming to E-town for an encore performance. I hope I can maybe shake his hand or suck him off or something. Country rules!

Mayor Dad!

Jan Rimer used to talk to me. Now she just looks at me like I have dung beetles crawling out of my ears. I used to masturbate when I thought of her - now I'm not so sure. Please Jan, please pay attention to me. Nice attention. I'm not a loser - really not at all. I make fun of superior people and I only prematurely ejaculate every second time. Please Jan. Please!

Khan-test!

If you are regular readers, you know of Hicks He Lix, you know of the "win a date with me" contest. Unfortunately no one entered the contest, so I think I'll eat my ass.

Destroy!

After meeting Vanilla Ice, I was struck by his depth of knowledge and genius.

Also, Janet Jackson ought to find me in a crowd, recognizing my potential. All I want to say is that I love music, I love art, and I love the idea of having sex with someone other than myself.

Revenge, Boy. A la Poisson.

The joke of the day is me. I lack talent and inspiration. Maybe someday, after a life of suffering and mediocrity, I will be as cool as Notley, Fish or Babliak. I just suck.

And speaking of no jokes, how come the University of Alberta sponsors such dimwits as those I just mentioned? I mean, all that swearing can really get on a guy's nerves! I know, I know. It seems silly of me to complain about cursing when we have big tits on page three, stripper ads all over the Sports Section, and I write about jerking off bulls, but fuck it! I mean, I'm the one getting paid here, not you! Sure I'm a bit of a wimpy little jerk and all. Who isn't? I think I'm funny! Don't you? The Spum is a great paper. We have lots of color! We have a right-wing attitude, although I'm the token lefty (sort of). Sure I just write attacks against people based on second- or third-hand knowledge. Sure I name-drop people you've never even heard of nor care about! Sure I make weak political generalizations! Sure I have pubic hair on my head! Sure I think that supressing student journalism is a good way to prove that I'm in the big league!

But that doesn't mean I'm not worth a hug. Or maybe a coffee. Or even a copy of Spare Change! That's my dream, y'know—to be the Chief of that paper. Then I could make politically-correct generalizations about anyone and blame it on the system.

God I'm great.
Yeah. I'm the best.
Here's to you!

So let's hear it for all those who write "funny" columns, but can't take a joke because they have their heads too far up their asses to remember what being young was like. Here's to those who forgot that everything in the world is a big joke to be laughed at—instead name-calling and condemning those who try to push the line. And here's to those that write parody columns of losers like me who themselves think that they're just as hot a plate of shit as me, but at least recognize it. Even though they obviously can't take the heat, either.

Fuck I'm tired.
Hopefully retired.

Crushed! U of A student dead!

By RATT SKINNY

AUSTIN, TEXAS—The University today mourns the death of Jane A. Student who was crushed to death in a freak accident at the entrance to the Central Academic Building on the University of Alberta Campus.

While on the way out after donating blood at the blood donor clinic, Student was caught and subsequently crushed when the automatic doors automatically closed too soon.

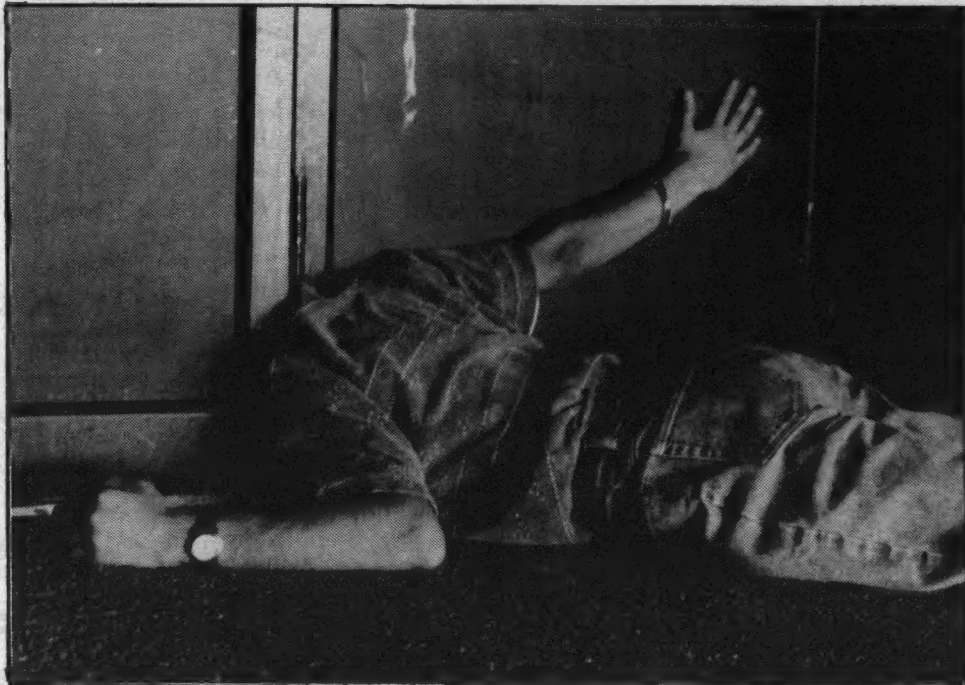

Five of the U of A Golden Bears football team passing by on their way to practice immediately ran to her aid and tried to pry the door open. But, they were unsuccessful.

Sobbed Joe Jacob, one of the five, "We were unsuccessful because Student was caught in such a way that she jammed the door closed. It was sort of like she was caught in the bottom of a pile up. She just couldn't breathe."

While a nearby student dialled 911, first aid by medical students eating lunch in the cafeteria was applied in a desperate attempt to save her life. Twenty minutes later, the ambulance arrived. But, by then Student had expired.

First aid had been discontinued ten minutes earlier because those helping her realized they had a circulatory final that they could not miss.

"It's final exam week. Our prof is real tough. He told that us that the only excuse he found acceptable for missing his exam was if we were attending a funeral—our own!"

When the ambulance attendants were asked why ter, five cats and five final exams, all of which have been deferred to a later date.

they arrived so late, the driver, who wished to remain anonymous, said, "Budget cuts. We are only allowed to answer two calls every hour. Now, if she had walked through the door fifteen minutes earlier, we would have been able to save her."

According to security, no investigation into the accident will occur. "There is just not enough money to look into every little accident on campus," stated B.A. Goodfellow, head of campus security.

Jane A. Student is survived by her parents, a brother and sis-

DND says Leafs to win cup

VANCOUVER, BC (UP)—There is an impending military coup shaping up in the nation's capital.

According to Gwenn Dryer, a syndedicated military analyst in Ottawa, the fact that all military leaves have recently been canceled, as well as the fact that all Canadian troops abroad have been recalled without cabinet authorization indicates Prime Minister Jacques Cousteau's government is set to fall.

"All of this activity would seem to indicate that there is an impending military coup. All democratic Canadians should be ready to man the barricades. I'm just glad the media has gotten a hold of this story so we can inform the people and the government about what's going on," said Dryer.

A spokesman at National Defence headquarters in Ottawa denied this, assuring Canadians that all was "Just fine. You don't have to worry about anything. Go back to watching the playoffs. I think the Leafs will go all the way this year."

Big Metric Mess

The Liberal federal government in all its wisdom (?) has come up with another dotty idea straight from Stalin's Little Red Book.

It's called the metric system. Maybe some of you have heard of it.

Now, I don't know about you, but I get along just fine saying how many miles it is to Calgary, how many feet tall my she-male lover is, and how many pounds of poo I can stuff into a rented VCR. But all of a sudden the federal government has this idea of getting people to switch over to this new system where everything ends with an "re."

(Well, I guess "kilogram" doesn't end with an "re." And neither does "dekagram" or "teranewton" or "hektametre." Or no, wait...)

Predictably, the left-leaning establishment has thrown up some clay pigeons to draw fire away from the metric debate. Provincial elections. Federal elections. The Gulf War. It's been weeks since anybody's followed this story up. Well, actually it's been decades. Actually, it's not that new a story. And some people may not think that metric isn't an important issue anymore.

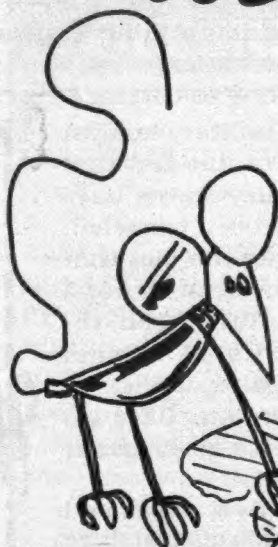

But just because ten or fifteen years have passed since the introduction of metric doesn't mean that we can just drop our guns and let those communists in Ottawa tell us how to measure things. In fact, there's more reason now than ever to keep up the fight.

Let me tell you a story, a story about a land founded on British ideals, and British culture. There may have been some French in there somewhere, but not in this part of it. Let's call this land Britland. No, that's stupid. Let's say it's Canada because that's the point of this whole story. Of course, it's not much of a story anymore. Let's not mention Quebec.

Anyway, this land was founded on British principles, (not Quebec) and those principles form the foundation of our culture (again, not Quebec). And one of those principles is the ideal of Imperial measurement. And that's where feet come in. I have two. And if you're not crippled, so do you. And no turban-wearing RCMP officer is going to tell me any different.

INSIPID LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

ASS-LICKING EDITOR: Valuemy Hooch, 492-5178

SWEET CHRIST! What are we coming to in this great nation? My son just graduated from high school and he can't get any kind of job for any little bit of money anywhere. You know why? Immigrants! I went to the place where my boy asked for a job and there was a darkie with a turban standing there. What an insult to our family! I even bet my tax money went to pay for this foreign free-loader to work here. Damn! I bet if Prestan had won he would have put a stop to this kind of injustice.

Nwolk Hplar
(Us too.)

AFTER MONTHS of research, I've determined that anal violation REALLY HURTS. Sweet Christ! This just proves how sick and twisted gays are. Thank you. Huge Hand-in-hand, MP
(A noble sacrifice in the name of morality.)

MAYOR RIMMER really gets my goat. First, like, she's a chick, eh? Sweet Christ! I mean, like, she thinks she can boss us around just because she's "oppressed?" I hate these feminist types! Whine Whine Whine. She won't spend money to keep the Oilers here. Like Jeez! Where are her priorities? I bet she'd rather spend money on one of those hoity-toity art places.

Dying Mosh
(Our sentiments exactly.)

I'M WORRIED about the extremely conservative slant this newspaper seems to be taking. How can the public be assured of unbiased reporting from a paper which seems to tilt its coverage towards the right wing? I would suggest that, if this newspaper wishes to retain a modicum of respectability, it should attempt to provide a more balanced point of view.

Jennyfir LaFountain, BA
(Sweet Christ! Balance this, you shrew!)

I'D JUST like to say that Graham Licks is a big fag. Squish (son of Khan) Griwkowsky, 69
(At least he has a job at a real newspaper, zero. Sweet Christ.)

After Finally performing analungus on your movie critic Vallery Giggly I realize that I was wrong in demonizing sodomitic activities. The rectum is a treasure. Thank-you Vallery and thank-you Spum for tantalizing our butts. I still love fascism though, sweet Christ!

Prestan Moanning
(We'll suck the ass of any mindless politician.)

I am thoroughly appalled at all this lewd nakedness and jumping around that these bimbo slut hooker bimbo dancing stripper girls are doing in clubs. Sweet Christ! It's not right. People should never take their clothes off. The human body is something to be hidden from sight. Just look at my body. You wouldn't want to see me au naturel, would you? I'm a fat, ugly, unhappy bitch. Don't dick with me. I've had politicians for breakfast because of this one stupid issue. Back off me man. Back off.

Tawdry Andthensome

Earth men! Surrender to the empire of Gleepo VII. Extinction of your species is inevitable. Exterminate! Exterminate! EXTERMINATE! Those worthy will be eaten.

Adam Green
(Sweet Christ!)

EVERY TIME my children leave my house, I quake in fear. Fear for their lives. You see, I live on the infamous 20th Street, a haven for lead-footed psychos bent on mowing down our innocent youngsters. My attempts at getting speed-bumps for our neighborhood street was quashed by a baby-killing minority led by the likes of Frink Zerko. Sweet Christ, will our precious offspring never be safe? When will this insane carnage stop? I think I could use a really strong drink.

Parrah Noyd
(Twenty bucks says your kids hate you.)

LETTER OF THE DAY

WHEN THE fuck are you fuckin guys gonna start printing nude Spumshine chicks? I hear even those fuckin fags over in England have nude chicks in their papers. If the fuckin English can do it so can we, right? That way I wouldn't mind so much when some of the chicks are these fuckin no-tits fat-ass war-pigs with their guts sloppin out over their shorts. Fuck, haven't you fuckin guys ever worked construction? It can fuckin ruin your whole day when the Spumshine chick is some fuckin piece of skank meat. I mean, what do you think fuckin coffee breaks are for? Fuck, man. If there was some fuckin snatch to look at I'd have something to do besides wipe my ass with the fuckin newspaper. I know you got some chicks working there who'll probably bitch your ear off about this idea, but fuck em.

Deathrobots are bad

However painful it all is, we are finally back on the road to reality. And this, as any infomercial self-help get-your-life-together-before-you-flush-it-down-the-toilet guru will tell you, it's worth it to get back to reality.

Ever since the government established its "no alien deathrobots" policy it's been rolling in letters, some of them angry, some of them written. They knew they had made a public relations mistake, but in true Tory fashion they ignored the complaints and bulled ahead like...uh...a bull, I guess.

Leaving devastation in the streets and in my ass.

Most people didn't have any specific complaints, but the alien deathrobots hollered to high heaven, and on any other day that'd be enough to recall the vote and make the government stew in its own beer for a while.

But they didn't. And that's the real question. Where did this "No-Robot" thing come from?

The premier obviously doesn't know. The caucus is in disarray. Cowalski is nowhere to be found; some say he's been melted by the robots, others say he's just big and dumb. Either way he's losing his hair, and that means a government with no direction.

The thing that the government didn't seem to realize is that Albertans, plain and simple, like alien deathrobots. They're shiny and speak in strange robot voices. The robots, that is—not the Albertans.

Not any I know, anyway. Except maybe my mom.

It's obvious that Alberta has an alien deathrobot problem. The real question is what is the problem, and whodoes it affect? There are some other questions, like where are my pants? and what stinks?, but these two questions are the ones that the government has to answer if it wants to get anywhere in this issue.

And answer them.

It's a truism, but no less true because of it, that good money follows bad. It's also a truism that anal rape is no laughing matter unless you pay double. Furthermore, it's a truism that you'd never take a crowd shot with anything smaller than a 24 mm lens. And finally, it's a truism that I'm a thousand feet tall and covered in moss and taffy.

Ronn

Here's another choppy one-sentence paragraph for you; enjoy!

That's just the way life is. Far from perfect. Far from Iceland. And just as some of those truisms weren't really truisms, or even true, it's also true that some jokes aren't funny. I think you know what I'm talking about here.

So what's the real question? That's not a rhetorical question; I've mentioned it already. Go back and check. Just before the bit about Cowalski. Oh yeah, and I guess it's also in the bit right after the choices and the heavy italics. Pardon me; I'm a little confused. I took that part out.

I've been drinking.

What I think is that the government should just sit down in a dark room with no lights for about a week. That'd scare the hell out of them! My God, they'd be totally buggy by the end of that! Imagine, a week with no light and only the Alberta Legislature to keep you company. They'd go buggy—that's a real psychiatric term by the way, buggy. And they'd go it. I would. Oh yeah. Buggy.

Bug-E.

Thank you to all the students who made the Community Volunteer Income Tax Program a success. Your time, knowledge and patience is greatly appreciated!

Garlic spray a new alternative for cops?

By SELIMA SEEPOLY
Staff Witer

PORTLAND, OREGON—In an attempt to create a way to more effectively commit crimes, creative crooks have come up with a culinary counter affect to use on our men in blue. The culprit: a tasty new garlic spray.

The new spray is used in the same manner as the cayenne pepper spray now used by law enforcement, but it is not illegal. Why use this rather than their own version of the sneeziest of the spices? Says Charles "The Chef" Kramer,

"Too many of my friends were sneezing away the mixture before they could put it into a spray bottle. So, we decided to try something a little less volatile for the nostrils."

After months of testing, the correct mixture of garlic, italian seasoning and water was created that would knock an individual out by giving them a whiff of what smelled like someone with severe halitosis.

Says Roy Antonio, one of the first to try the spray in a local bank robbery, "It will knock a person out for about five minutes, leaving them to dream of garlic bread and spaghetti sauce. It gives an, uh, individual time to get some work done." Antonio is now waiting sentencing at the provincial courts.

How do local police officers react to this new criminal concoction?

No one was willing to comment, citing that they were still looking into it.

"The best thing about it is that you can't ban it. If the [police] did, then how would people be able to enjoy a good italian meal?" says Kramer.

ROCK CONCERT KILLS HUNDREDS WITH 'BUCK ROGERS RAY GUNS'

HOBOKEN, NJ (UPS)—An estimated 100 people were killed during the finale of a Penk Fluud concert last night. Authorities believe that the light show, which features twenty high energy laser cannons able to burn through six feet of steel reinforced concrete, may be related to the deaths.

"We have good reason to assume that these Buck Rogers ray guns might have zapped those loopy dope smokin' hippies," said Chief Investigator Ray Whopps. "Then again, they might have been puffin' on the same sort of weed, causing their doped-out minds to fry, just like in that commercial. All in all, I would call this a good message to send out to the youth of today—fast livin' and rock and roll will kill you good and dead. Ray guns. I'd believe that when I believe man actually landed on the moon."

"It was smokin', man!" said witness Gorm Doobiehauser. "The bodies were twitchin' and frying...it smelled like weiners, man! What? that wasn't part of the show?"

Technician Rudy Flossit commented that the laser cannon mishap was a surprise. "Yeah, usually only about twenty or thirty people get fried at these shows, so to nail a hundred of them was, well, cool."

Penk Fluud's management, F.F.Meskoloid and Blood Clan, issued a statement this morning claiming no responsibility for the deaths, saying "those people could have coughed up the extra twenty-five dollars to get VIP seats, which were safely out of the line of fire. You get what you pay for, and the difference between seventy-five and a hundred bucks could have meant a human life."

The statement goes on to mention that had more people been willing to pay even more than a hundred dollars a ticket, they could have been "treated to the detonation of an atomic bomb at the end of the show. The only reason we didn't do it was because we feared that we wouldn't have had enough money to cover the damage deposit on most of the venues."

The manufacturers of the laser cannons, Destructo Inc., refused to comment directly on the event, but a spokesperson did say that the cannons were originally destined for use in the American military's Star Wars project. "They scrapped the thing, so we had to make our money back somehow. We don't care if it's a fucking lunatic from Mars or some crazy rock and roll band, the colour of their money is the same to us."

General Avery Kluckenhussy of the US Army was present at the performance, denying he knew anything of the mishap and claimed to have been there only as a "fan of Penk Fluud." Kluckenhussy did comment on the deaths saying, "There's nothing that makes you prouder of America than our ability to fry anything anywhere. Of course, I'm glad we didn't pick those cannons up. Only a hundred people? Shit, we've got stuff in space right now that could've taken out everybody in this stadium...um...I gotta go."

The band refused to comment. The tour is continuing, which includes an appearance here in Edmonton this summer.

One of the many unfortunate people affected by the Penk Fluud concert last night in Hoboken, New Jersey, when a hundred people were melted by the show's high powered laser cannons. Penk Fluud will be coming to town this summer, by the way.

VEDDAH, COCAINE IN DEATH PACT?

(AP) Police took grunge-rock singer Eddie Veddah into custody late Sunday night for questioning on the death of rival rocker Kurt Cocaine, who was found dead of an apparently self-inflicted chainsaw wound to the head a week ago.

Spokesman say Veddah came under suspicion when sweat samples taken from towels left backstage at a concert by Veddah band, Pearl Cram, matched the perspiration traces on an unidentified sleeping bag found with Cocaine's body.

Kurt Cocaine

"My guess is it was some kind of homosexual death pact gone wrong," Detective Nat Lumley said. "That Cocaine guy wore dresses and stuff, you know."

Veddah was still being questioned by police and was unavailable for comment.

Veteran rock critic David Fracke said that Cocaine's suicide note supports the theory that Veddah killed Cocaine.

"There are dozens of spelling and grammer errors, not to mention hoary cliché like, 'It's better to burn out than to fade away.' This would be more consistent with Veddah's songwriting style than Cocaine's."

Fracke also pointed out that a portion of Cocaine's suicide note not released to the public contained the phrases, "Alive, whoa, I'm still alive," and several references to "Jeremy, such a lonely boy."

"Alive" and "Jeremy" are songs from Pearl Cram's platinum album Nine.

"Kurt and Eddie had a strange love/hate thing going on," Cocaine's widow Courtney Dovey commented. "It wouldn't surprise me if something kinky got out of hand, but this is the first I've heard of it." Police spokesmen say a press conference will be held Wednesday.

PEOPLE IN THE NUDE

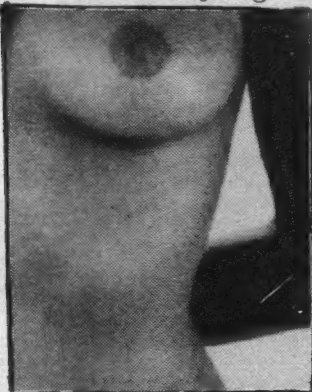

DEVO Country

In a surprising demographic jump, proto-punk techno band DEVO topped the Billboard country charts Friday with their comeback album "Mongoloid Cowboys". According to founding DEVO member Gerald Casale, the new album was produced "...to make some serious cash off these trailer-park spuds." A concert tour and breakfast cereal are rumored to be in the works.

Whitney Peels

Songstress of soul Whitney Houston reportedly bragged herself into some trouble last Monday when she and husband Bobby Brown entered a hip onion joint. "I can eat a whole onion raw!" howled Whitney, grabbing the largest red onion and biting feverishly into it. She should have peeled the onion first, said confirmed sources, because she choked on the skin and barfed all over Barry White, who was buying 40 cloves of garlic and a decanter of bean soda. Crazy negroes!

Fat Fuck Farmey

Chris Farmey, Saturday Night Live's preverbal fat fuck reportedly started choking while rehearsing skit on Saturday afternoon. Upon receiving the Heimlich maneuver he threw up sixteen hot dogs, three chickens, and a small foreign car. Staff offered no comment other than to say Farmey was recovering in his van by the river.

QUEST FOR WORST!

MY LIVINGROOM - Which team is the true worst in the NHL?

Which team really is the worst?

The worst in the standings? And the the worst team in the eyes of the league, stand- ings aside?

Leave it to comish Barry Getman to provide the answers.

The Cup of Shame is coming to Edmonton.

OILERS IN THERE

The Cup of Shame is the consolation-round run in hockey, a first-time event, the brain-child of a suffering league, of a comish yearning for the right schtick, and, for me, the provider of more free meals at the Anaheim Pond media lounge.

The Oil Prices open at the Dicks Wednesday night. After going 3-1 against Anaheim during the regular season, Edmonton is re-born once more.

I remember how the Oil Prices relied on Wayne to pull one out of the hat more than once.

And how Matt gave the Eskimos the chance to win more than one Grey Cup.

And I remember Warren. Geez, I sure hope the Vikings are going to do well this year.

"We think the Cup of Shame will give the fans something to cheer about, and we think it will go along way to deciding who is the best and worst teams in the league," Getman said from his New York office.

What the Cup of Shame is, the comish tells me, is the last ten teams in the league engaged in five seven best-of-seven series where only the losers advance until the ultimate loser emerges, welst the winner gets to end their season in peace, on the golf course, or drunk on some lake doing the nasty.

Terry MOANS

The nasty. Nevermind. The Oil Prices are ready.

"We think we're ready," said Edmonton goalie Edide Cantwaite, who is 3-17 this season, but gets the nod in game one because of an injury to Evan Renford.

Besides, Renford is almost a goner because of free agency, and the Oil need to win and end their year the way it was meant to end.

Endings.

I remeber that overtime game, a couple of years ago, when the home-side scored and we all went out and got pissed.

Drunk as skunks.

Man was that a good time. Where was I?

The Ducks, in their first season, were a surprise, lead by that guy they got from Pittsburgh and that other kid from Quebec.

The heart and soul, though, is that kid they got from Jersey—the one with the funny smile.

Had a beer with that kid. Good kid.

Prime Ticket isn't covering the Cup of Shame, but I'll be there, filling the page, and filling my mush.

Love filling my face. Makes me happy.

It'll make me happy when the Oilers beat the Ducks.

Then their season will end. The team who loses all the series is decalred winner of the Cup of Shame.

Then the fun starts.

I like fun.

Nevermind.

GOD I LOVE MYSELF

The Cup of Shame winner is really no winner at all, having to endure a good old-fashioned soap-beating, like the Mohawk tribe in early Canadian history.

Love history.

Sports history.

Like the history of the Eskimos, a book about history I wrote.

Still get royalties, but not as much now.

Boy I miss Warren.

May the Oil Prices season end the way it was meant to end: on the ice.

Not at the end of a soap-bar. Dropped the soap.

Once.

THE WRATH OF ME!

Khan GRIWKOWSKY

There she is! There she is! Captain... no Admrak Kirk is the proud new skip of the Federation Curling Team. And he's a happy man.

When asked how he thought he would do in the upcoming Galactic Brier, he stalled cunningly. "Time... we need more time!" Time is a luxury you do not have, Admiral.

I watched as the plump inferior human slid down the sheet of ice. His form was good and his Vulcan thrd displayed intelligence like I had never before seen, even during the Eugenics wars. He swept with a force which could only be labelled "verve."

I stormed onto the ice, my genetically engineered body using muscles which had been flexed two hundred years before you were born! You may wonder why I am obsessed with Kirk... he asks me. He asks me!

I approached, laughing. "I've done far worse than report on you, Admiral. I've hurt you. And I wish to go on hurting you. I shall leave you as you left me, marooned for eternity in the center of a dead planet—buried alive... buried alive... buried alive." I said.

"What? Look, get out of here," he retorted, and unfortunately had me kicked out of the arena.

Admiral Kirk poises like a weary seal, unaware of the doom to immediately befall him. Hahahaha! Er...

SPORTS SHOUTS

BOXING / Prison Brawl

Atlanta, Ga. - While incarcerated in a Georgia maximum security prison, former heavyweight champion Mike Tyson was challenged by Eddie "RingWorm" LeVay, convicted child molester and cannibal to a fifteen round no holds barred boxing match in the prison laundry room.

"HBO offered six million for the pay-per-view rights, which will pay for the new electro-shock therapy wing, so we said, what the hell, why not," said prison Warden Rufus T. Justice.

Tyson appeared weak in the first four rounds where LeVay managed to attach himself to the Champ's earlobes and genitals with his patented pitbull double-lock.

"Man, that fuckin' hoit," said Tyson afterwards. "Good thing the prison surgeons were able to reattach my left nut. We would have never put up with that shit in the WBF."

Although LeVay seemed to have the ole prison advantage, Tyson proved once again that the Bronx is the toughest hood on the continent when he threatened to go after LeVay's family, including his ten sisters.

SOCCER/ Fuck the Germans

Pele, the former Brazilian soccer superstar, is reportedly trying to make a comeback and get a starting position on the World Cup team that will be playing at Commonwealth Stadium this summer. Brazilian coaches have been quoted as saying that "the old fuck has a snowball's chance in hell of making the team, my grandma could outrun him." Despite the remarks Pele remains optimistic. "If George Foreman can do it, so can I, besides, someone has to beat those fucking Germans!! Without the English, it's up to us."

RUNNING/ Cheating Weasel

Matt Fedoruk won the Saint Alberta 10 K road race this weekend in an amazing record breaking time. The U of A student got the wire in 0:45:27, which is quite an incredible time if you think about it. Well, the judges sure thought about it because they investigated Fedoruk's running pattern and found that he took a short cut across the river to cut off five of those kilometres. The cheating weasel had to give his gold medal back. People were outraged at the young runner's behavior, but he defended himself by saying, "I was tired, and it seemed like the logical thing to do. But I did get my 100 dollar shoes all wet and soggy and that's really the biggest tragedy."

Attack on economics in book

Ezto Levant, lawyer-in-waiting and gad-about-town, has just released a new self-help book, Levanthan: How I Won the War of All Against All. Ezto clogged our fax machines with invitations to interview him, so finally we gave in.

EL: Hi, I'm Ezto Levant.

SUN: Er, hi.

EL: I'm here to talk to you today about my new book, Levanthan: How I Won the War of All Against All. It's available at fine book stores across the city. Now, let me ask you something. How much would you be willing to pay for a book this size? $69.95? $39.95? How about just $29.95?

SUN: Um, how about if I ask the questions?

EL: No problem. Absolutely no problem whatsoever.

SUN: Great. So what's the book about?

EL: Well, basically, it's my take on Thomas Hobbes's great political tract of 1651, Levlathan. I don't know if you or your readers would be familiar with it, but it's really is a fascinating read.

SUN: Can't say I've heard of it.

EL: Well, in that case, I think my book, and I say this with all humility, provides a perfect introduction. Basically, Hobbes says that man is by nature selfishly individualistic and is constantly at war with other men. In these days of political correctness, I suppose I should say persons. At any rate, Hobbes and I part ways somewhat in that I believe that this natural selfishness and constant state of war is not such a bad thing. In fact, it's good.

SUN: You're losing me.

EL: Let me simplify. Hobbes says that self-serving men lead lives that are nasty, brutish, and short. I say no. I say that for the man who serves himself well, life can be nice, comfortable, and long. Mine is, and so can yours if you buy my book.

SUN: What's your secret?

EL: Well, I don't want to give away too much, because those with the resources to purchase my book really should be rewarded with the full benefit of its contents, but I will say that success in the war of all against all involves three steps. First, be born wealthy. Second, promote yourself endlessly. Third, solidify your position by preventing people who claim to be disadvantaged from gaining a foothold.

SUN: I see. And that's easy?

EL: Anyone can do it. And I'm willing to help. My book is just $29.95, and the first hundred customers get a free T-shirt featuring the Levanthan himself, me.

SUN: Great.

Kleineken Brewed Here?

In a surprise move to aid the revenue position of our ailing institution, sources close to an exiting top ranking University official indicated that the popular Big Rock beer "Kleineken" was to be brewed right here on campus. Insider comments have led us to believe that the Dentistry-Pharmacy Building was to be utilized to brew the popular Tory suds right here in the heart of our campus. The move is being touted as an attempt by the Tory Party to solidify crumbling relations between the Provinces' Capitol and her sister City to the South.

Part of the third phase of Steve East's Liquor Privatization Package, following the sale of the St. Albert facility to an as yet unnamed Multinational Grocery Chain, Brewery licenses are up for grabs to the general public, and major Brewers appear to be on a franchise roll.

"Kleineken" is likely to be brewed under license from its' Originators in Calgary, but when approached for comment they denied any knowledge of the plans' existence.

Industry insiders indicate that research has been ongoing at the University Farms on the development of a new altered grain that will be central to the new products appeal. Apparently, the new grain is to have a THC component. Getaway staffer Mallomar-Leviathan, who has been close to the project from its' conceptual stages states, "Personally, I beleive this is a product whose time has come, Hemp Beer is the wave of the future. The rallies' were quite obviously a success, and this yet another example of media bias and suppression."

The move was discussed in Education Roundtables as a step towards more practical University Programs.

Advanced Education Minister Jacque Aide was heard as saying, "We feel that this solves two problems in one go, we get trained personnel in a vital industry, they get on the job instruction, and we get a saleable product, made with Alberta grown products. Personally, I feel that is very definetly a Win-Win scenario for all concerned."

Students Union President Torence Filemuch was adopting a wait and see position on the issue. Cited Filemuch, "I really can't say, I haven't tried it yet." The VP External was quoted as saying, "I'm all for a change that will help the University, perhaps we can market this product across Canada to other schools, as part of some overall package." Board of Governors Rep Sashay Kaustic put it in perspective, commenting, "Cool."

As a further extension of the project, recently announced Infra-Structure Program monies will be used to employ laid off Physical Plant workers to lay an internal Campus pipeline for the new Suds. This was seen as a cost cutting move given the proposed target Market, the crucial 18-24 year old student sector.

RATT Manager Eduoards couldn't be reached for comments, but RATT Patrons were visibly excited by the concept. Says one Bookstore staffer, "I think it's a wonderful concept, maybe we could run a line directly into the pit, that way we wouldn't have to waste so much time riding the elevators up and down, up and down, all day long."

Food & Beverage Manager Ken Pennywise was away from his desk but this reporter found a confidential memo on the subject which included the statement, "... wicked idea, I think it'll fly if we can grab an exclusive on it. Do you think they'll have football tickets?"

Proposed distribution at this point is limited to Deweys Bar & Grill in HUB Mall, RATT, and in a surprise move, L'Express in the SUB Foodcourt. Stated the L'Express Mgr. who wished to remain anonymous in case of Union complications, "If we can't shove them thru the line faster, the least we can do is make them happier while they wait."

Dawn Moor was busy renovating, but didn't think it was a product they needed to carry, "...if they want to get trashed they'll just drink tequila anyhow."

This has been a paid advertising feature by Deweys, L'Express, and Room at the Top, and really shouldn't be taken too seriously. Have a killer summer, and thanks!

DEAR SCABBY

Fuck you and your trauma

DEAR SCABBY: I think everyone hates me. Every year when the new telephone books arrive shiny and sweet smelling on my doorstep, I flip eagerly through them looking for my name. Every year I am bitterly disappointed. The telephone company has it in for me. Also, my mother fire bombed my house last week and my dog pees on my foot every time I try to pet him or put food in his dish. Am I paranoid?

JERK IN FAIRVIEW

DEAR JERK: Look quit your fucking whining, okay? I'm sick of all you losers writing to me to bitch about your boring problems. What, am I some kinda advice columnist or something. Sweet Christ.

DEAR SCABBY: Everyone is kissing me and I don't know what to think of it all. Should I fuck 'em, or what?

WORRIED "TODD BABIAK" IN EDMONTON

DEAR "TODD BABIAK": You'd better because in a few years you'll be old and ugly like me and you won't be able to buy a lay. Take advantage of your fleeting attractiveness.

DEAR SCABBY: I like reading your hateful words, and I think it's time you dished some out on me. That's right, I'm addicted to dirt. I often let women throw me down, kick me, spit on my genitals, and then...I'll let you figure out the rest. Is there something wrong with that, and is it okay if I fondle my bum while I read your response?

FONDLER IN NEED OF A MULCHING

DEAR FUCKO: Get your filthy eyes off of my column. The way I see it you deserve everything you get and I wouldn't mind a videotape if you have the technology. Seek professional help.

DEAR SCABBY: Whenever I touch my special member something seems to happen. Sometimes it's miraculous but at other times it feels like Zeus has shot a lighting bolt through my dick. What, if anything, should I do?

MESS IN MY PANTS FROM LEDUC

DEAR PANTS: Quit playing with yourself you fuckin' monkey! Normal people have sex with other people, not themselves, freak-boy. Get a dog.

Folks, it's been a loooong night, and an even longer year. Now it's over, and that's all there is. Hope you enjoyed some of this stuff we've given you over the annum. I know not all of it was, like, award-winning, but some of it was pretty good and we had a lot of fun. Let this be the end.
—Stephen Notley, Editor-in-Chief

P.S. Volunteers who want bound copies MUST come and put their names on the list in the main ofice before next week, or you won't get one. So don't come crying to me.

*You know what I'm talking about . . .
I'm talking about that day . . .*

. . . not the one the weather person tells you about, but the one that you feel in your bones,

that day when you just can't stay inside,

that day when you can smell the fresh air drawing you out of the house, that day when your body absolutely demands that you take it for a walk,

that day when all you want to do is bathe your face in sunlight and feel the breeze on the back of your neck, that day when to be out on the patio is to be truly alive . . .
